LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

This month I would like to address what I had placed in last month's issue of the DIALOG concerning faculty values. It has come to my attention that members of the Graphic Design Faculty feel that I was aiming this particular complaint at them for the fact that I am a Graphic Design student. This is not the case, I sit in the S.A.C. office each day hearing complaints from students about their teachers and the lack of caring and/or ability. This article was written to tell students that they are not alone, the article was not written as an attack on any particular person or department but to voice a problem that does exist in the college.

My own personal dealings with the college, Graphics in particular, shows that the college does have staff that care. I had hit a rough spot in my education and was having some serious problems, and they went out of their way to help me. Some were hurt by what I had said and thought it was an attack on them. I am flattered that the faculty read this publication, but I am somewhat hurt as well that someone would think that I would turn back on what was done for me.

MUSINGS FROM A MATURE STUDENT

By
Wanda Cousins

Well, my friends, this is it. THE LAST ISSUE OF DIALOG, at least for this semester anyway. I would like to thank a few people for making my column at DIALOG possible. First of all, a special thank you to Franky Chernin, for suggesting the idea of a column to me a long time ago. Writing the column was worth it and was even easier to write than most of my essays.

Secondly, a warm thanks to Bill Windrem for supporting me and guiding me through spelling and grammatical errors. It was fun and I have a few more pleasant memories that just might end up in my memoirs one day.

One thing I don't like about this column, is that at the beginning I let my readers know that they could write to me with their problems and we would work together to try to resolve them to the best of our abilities. Well, guess what: either no one reads this paper or else no one has problems. Might it also be possible that my readers don't particularly believe that I can help? Or, (sob, sob) is it that the student populace of George Brown just don't want to get involved? All I know is that I have not received one single letter to either say bad or good.

Oh well, I guess that you are ALL WELL ADJUSTED ADULTS WHO DO NOT HAVE ANY PROBLEMS AT ALL. If so, good for you but let your doctor know when the ulcers hurt!

THOUGHT OF THE MONTH!

STUDENT LIFE

With Franky Chernin
STUDENT LIFE

We have begun planning for Orientation '93. This year we will have a 2 day College Wide Orientation, thanks to the efforts of SEC to "sell" the proposal to the Dean's Council. We are hoping to schedule a variety of activities and presentations for the first day, to not only give new students the information they need, but provide opportunities for meeting other students and staff. Our wish list so far, includes campus tours; divisional info booths; class demonstrations; meeting admin, (President's Office, Deans, Chairs); Presentations, info on SAC, Athletics, Counseling, Career Services, Peer Tutoring, Financial Aid, Special Needs; BBQ; Pub. The second day, Divisions will have the morning and we will all go to the Island in the afternoon for the traditional Islandfest.

If you have any ideas about the types of activities, events, info that should be included in the first day, please drop by my office at St. James, Rm. 126 or call me at 867-2674.

Also, I'd like your comments if you attended either of the Speaker's Corner video presentations at Nightingale and St. James.

MARCH 10/93 LETTER REGARDING THE ARTICLE IN THE MARCH ISSUE OF THE DIALOG, GBC'S STUDENT PAPER, "SEX WITH CARLO"

Although your article is minutely gender neutral, and that is no compliment, I found the entire issue article quite sexist. You also look at the advert. beside it promoting "International Women's Day" was quite tasteless. My feelings are as such; the article was tasteless, sexist and misogynist in it's content.

You may find the article quite humorous which is promoting (misogyny) hatred toward women. And as an

"only kidding" article.

To allow George Brown SAC to even allow such tasteless words sickens me.

Women face oppressive situations in their every day lives, and yes, this article is oppressive and primitive/patriarchal.

I will be C'ing a copy to ACE and to Angela our student governor.

I am in no way afraid to promote my views or my name being mentioned for that fact.

Addendum: Women face many types of violence psychological, verbal and physical. Obviously "words don't mean much eh?" THINK ABOUT IT

Kristie Uliyh

In response to Kristie Uliyh's letter:
Well Ms. Uliyh we are glad that you have read Mr. Gamble's article and thought about it and responded to it. Fortunately we live in a country that allows its citizens to express freedom of speech, which gives us the right, to express our views, and respond to other peoples point of view. Although you and possibly others do not agree with Mr. Gamble's column, he has the right to express his views and his humour, and it is our right to print it, just as it is your right to respond. The Dialog is a Student Newspaper, that is owned by the Student Council, but it does not necessarily represent the views of all the members of the Student Executive Council. We thank you for your response.

CARLO GAMBALE

SEX WITH CARLO

Well lovebirds, spring is in the air, and summer is just around the corner. And we know what that means for the more adventurous lovers!!! Out door sex! This months column will talk about sex on the beach (not the drink, but the act). The following tips and hints should make your romantic encounter more enjoyable. I hope it helps.

- When choosing a location for your romantic encounter, keep in mind the privacy variable. You don't need to educate the youngsters to early in life do you?

- Consider the time of day. Depending on how romantic you want to be, you made need to be on the beach when the crowds are gone.

- Make sure you have a blanket. This is a must! This will keep the sand out of all the places you don't want sand. Plus you won't sand each other raw. If the beach is crowded, and your the adventurous type, you may want to try getting it on under a blanket. This is an option so use your discretion.

- If it's sunny you might want to try applying suntanning lotion to one another. Try using a flavor that you don't mind tasting.

- If it's late at night, you can forget the blanket and just lie at the edge of the water, and have the wave rush up against you. This can be very stimulating!

- If you want to be discreet you can try burying your partner in the sand, leaving only the head and other erogenous areas exposed, and then you could take turns pleasing each other. Actually, picturing this makes me think you could possible attract more attention then want. I would just like to hear someone explanation for behaving that way on top of the sand. (I didn't say these were the best of tips).

- For those of you who wish to get it on in the sun, watch out for sun burn, beaches a burn can hurt "where the sun don't shine".

- Finally, for you less daring lovers. You can fool around in the water. Just go out to where you can be covered enough and just go wild.

Well I hope this has helped. If I have left any ideas out please let know for future reference. Please have a SAFE and pleasurable summer, we have all worked hard!

Student Morale : What needs to be done.

Student morale is in serious danger at the St. James campus of George Brown College. If something isn't done in the near future I personally feel that it is going to have a serious effect on our college. In the pass few years the negativity in the school is getting worse and worse. It's almost cool now to complain about something. I even find myself complaining when there is no need to. In the following essay I hope to shed some light on why the problem is growing, as well as what can be done to resolve this problem.

With the student morale at it's all time low, it is hard to get things rolling on the right track. The Student Administrative Council, Also known as S.A.C., is having a hard time getting the students and staff involved with the activities that S.A.C. puts on. Because of this there is no sense of unity within the walls of the campus. A perfect example of this is the pub, also known as Camp Zu. The turn out for this event is in the region of 50 to 75 patrons on average. Now for a event of this caliber, the pub needs at least 200 to 250 students and staff to make it a success. If this event works, S.A.C. would make up to $1500 and that would go towards more events that would help continuing the building of student morale.

Another example is the S.A.C. election that occurs in the fall as well as the spring. On average there are at most 500 students voting. Considering that there are 4800 students at the St. James campus, I personally feel that this number is unacceptable.

The last of the three major problems is the fact that the students are not getting informed of the different events that are happening inside, as well as outside the school. This problem is solely S.A.C.'s problem. S.A.C. has the responsibility of not only setting up the events, but promoting the events.

With these three problems, comes numerous effects. The first being the total lack of unity in the school. It's almost to the point that the average student looks down at any sign of school spirit. And so any attempt on a students behalf to try to stir up some morale, is quickly extinguished by other students.

This leads to the result of "cliques" forming and the fact that these "cliques", in many cases, spend any free time away from the school. With this occurring, the student every morning doesn't want to go to class and therefore is in the wrong frame of mind to learn. If the student enjoys being at school every day, then two things occur. One being the attendance of that student will increase with a lot less absence. Also the marks of that student will rise because of the fact that the student doesn't feel that school is something that they have to do every day, but something they want to do every day.

The last of the results of the above listed problems is the way the student feels about S.A.C.. If the student feels negatively towards student morale, then there is no doubt that this student is not going to like, nor participate in any S.A.C. events. Since these events are put on to help make student life more enjoyable, and help raise student morale, then of course these events are not going to work.

Now it comes to the question what can be done to solve these problems. Well I have devised a few simple steps that will help. Of course this will not be an over night change within the school, but I feel it will bring the student morale back to the school. Another thing is that these solutions should not be solely S.A.C.'s responsibility, but also the staff's responsibility. And that the two bodies should work together to help rid the college of this problem.

The first solution falls under S.A.C.'s responsibility. There is a large amount of students needed to promote any event that S.A.C. is putting on. S.A.C. needs a promotion committee that will think of new ideas on how to promote the events and also actually do the work. This responsibility can't fall solely on the executives alone. The executives need more Division Representatives that will spend the time to do the work. If this is accomplished, then half the work is already done.

Next, the Vice President of Activities for next year, which is myself, will need a wide variety of events, so that more students have something to do that they will enjoy. That of course means taking risks, but these are risks that, at some point in time, have to be made. So I feel that there is no better time than the present.

The last step needed to complete this transaction will strongly include the teachers as well as the support staff. I am glad to say there are some staff in this school that are behind S.A.C. and would like to see that an idea of this nature become practiced, but at the same time there are staff that are not willing to help with this problem. At times some of us forget that we are here for the students of this college. And if it was not for the students this collage would not be here. I personally do not see why both the staff and S.A.C. can't work together to solve this problem, considering both have a great deal to gain from this.

With the right help and a few risks, this campus could be flourishing with student life. And therefore not only creating a better environment for the students and staff of St. James Campus, but set an example of how a college should be run.

Question:

If the men charged with beating Rodney King are convicted, what type of sentence do you think they should receive.

Answers:

"I think the ones who did the beating should be sentenced. I feel they should get ten years, and if they are good get out on good behavior."
- A George Brown Student.

"Yes they should be sentenced because from what I saw on the video the excessive force that they used was unnecessary considering the reason they stopped hi in the first place. I think they should be kicked off the force and fined a lot of money."
- Nichol Ralph

"Yes! The law is the law and it does not matter if you are a citizen of the law or a defendant of the law. If you are human and you should break the law you should be punished by the law regardless. They should be sentenced as if they were four black men and Rodney King was white, because whether we want to admit it our justice system is plagued with racism."

Bizarre Notes

with
Tim Kemp

It's true! My dog actually ate a frog once. I know that most people will not believe it, but I saw him run up, sniff it and then swallow it with one big gulp. I saw him do it with poo once to. I don't know if it was dog or people poo, but it was poo. Brown stuff.

What the hell does this have to do with music, you ask? Well nothing, but I was hoping that I would catch someone eating a brownie while they were reading this.

OK. Let's start with a cornucopia of items and announcements for the month. First off is the Toronto based comedy troupe "THERAN-DOM FEW". These guys will be appearing at NO

JACKETREQUIRED, 52 St. Clair Ave. E. The show is free!!!

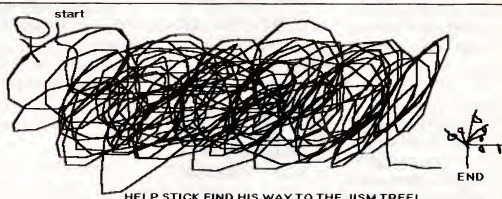

Theater Erebus Inc., Hamilton's professional alternative theater company, is pleased to announce that it will be remounting its Canadian premier production of Marlene Meyer's play ETTA JENKS at the Factory Theater in Toronto opening May 14, 1993.

Go see it I implore you.

Hey guess what? Clint "I hate when people ask me to say "Make My Day"" Eastwood. is starting a new movie starring Kevin Costner.

Personally I think Kevin sucks. I hope this movie dies.

BRIDGET FONDA CODE NAME "NINA"

Point of No Return

Earlier this month I had the opportunity of seeing Point of No Return, a remake of the french film, "La Femme Nikita". This movie starring Bridget Fonda was quite a well done reproduction of "Nikita", and in some cases you could hardly tell the difference except for the language spoken. Although Fonda's ability to portray a seedy teen drug addict was hardly as convincing as Anne Parillaud (Nikita), she later pulled her weight as the socialite assassin. It is a story of an under cover government association which takes society's basket cases and converts them into elite assassins. "Nina" (Bridget Fonda) is one of these losers and is transformed into a beautiful killing machine. She soon develops morals and can no longer tolerate all the killing and soon decides to leave the "organization" with some difficulty. If you can't stand sub-titles I would strongly suggest that go see this movie, it is exciting and powerful. If your a fan of "La Femme Nikita", give it a chance, maybe wait till it comes out on video but see this movie, it's worth it.
